

ZING!

Development Strategies

Anne Rosen

Anne Rosen's 23-year real estate career includes land development, residential and commercial development, asset management and consulting. Before founding Zing! Anne served as director of real estate for the redevelopment of the 1,866-acre former Lowry Air Force Base. As executive staff for this award-winning project, Anne oversaw a fast-paced real estate team with resulting commercial and residential land sales of over $123 million and $1.1 billion in development value. Prior to joining Lowry, Anne directed the leasing efforts for a one million square foot portfolio of retail properties. She also has experience in office, medical office, office R&D brokerage, property management, tenant finish coordination, marketing and entitlement processing. Anne graduated from the University of Colorado's Business School with a degree in marketing. Currently, Anne volunteers her time to the University of Denver Burns School of Real Estate and The Children's Hospital.

Anne Rosen
Founder and Principal

Anne is joined by Meredith Quast, who performs development research and attends to the daily coordination of Zing! projects. With nearly a decade of real estate experience, Meredith has functioned as tenant service coordinator for a large Denver-based property company and worked in several Chicago-area firms that specialize in residential, industrial, and retail properties.

